Parents and teachers can make use of the impulse to possess in many ways. In the home a child can be led to acquire orderly habits by being encouraged to arrange his own possessions tidily ; and this valuable training can be continued at school where he can be helped to keep carefully-arranged samples of his own handiwork, such as drawing, paintings, specimens of his own handwriting, well-done arithmetic exercises and the like. Closely linked with pride of possession is an impulse to collect things. By the exercise of a little tact, he can inspire a child to collect postage stamps, and may thus lead him to a lasting interest in history and geography.
